social and emotional aspects of schooling and the learning environment can dramatically affect one's attention, understanding, and memory for learning. This topic has been of increasing interest in both psychology and education, leading to an entire section being devoted to it in the third edition of the International Encyclopedia of Education. Thirty-three articles from the encyclopedia form this concise reference, which focuses on such topics as social and emotional development, anxiety in schools, effects of mood on motivation, peer learning and friendship, and social networks. It saves researchers time in summarizing in one place what is otherwise an interdisciplinary field in cognitive psychology, personality, sociology, and education. Level of presentation focuses on critical research, leaving out the extraneous and focusing on need-to-know information. Contains contributions from top international researchers in the field. Makes Mrw content affordable to individual researchers.

Why should researchers be interested in their feelings and emotions as they carry out research? Emotion is what it is to exist, to be human, and is present in every sphere of our lives. All activities are infused with emotion, even those that are constructed as rational, because rationality and emotionality are interpenetrated and entwined. Because all thinking is tinged with feeling and all feeling is tinged with thinking, this book illuminates the emotional processes of doing social and organizational research and the implications of this for the outcomes of research, with contributions from leading academics and research practitioners. It addresses the significant issue of the sometimes intense emotional experiences involved in doing research and the implications it has for the theory and practice of social research by examining the nature of feelings and emotions. It explores how we might understand researchers' emotions and experiences and considers the often powerful feelings encountered in a variety of research contexts. Topics discussed include power relations, psycho-social explanations of researcher emotions, paradoxical relations with research participants, and the sometimes disturbing data that is gained. Research supervision, the politics of research, gender, publishing, undergoing vivas, and presenting at conferences: this book will therefore be a valuable companion to researchers and research students from the start of their career onwards.
